Capital Said To Be Looking for an Investment in This District in the Early Spring

PRODUCE FINEST ZINC IN STATE

Mining operators are jubilant over what they say appears to be an indication of a considerable amount of capital looking for investment in this district. It is needless to say it is welcome because more capital and energy mean more production.

Again we have been informed that several new companies will enter the field here in the spring. With the sphere of interest which the district has already attained and the success of the new dry process and separating plants being installed in this district, in a few years will out rival Joplin and other fields, not only in the production of the greatest flux known to secure fluorspar, but also in the production of lead and zinc.

Joplin, Mo., January 7. The price of zinc ore has been on the decline and was $1 less than the week preceding. The highest price paid was $53 per ton for the choice ore. Assay leads ranged from $45 to $40 per ton for 60 per cent zinc.

The price of lead is still at the top notch of $80, which was paid all week for all that could be obtained. The amount of ore mined the past week was behind the average, although the weather has not been severe.

Mining operations were resumed at the Ada Florence mine last Saturday. In the shaft here a four foot vein of spar is uncovered. This property is now owned and operated by the Great Northern Mining Milling Company, composed of Muncie, Indiana capitalists, chiefly. The present shaft, now 100 feet deep, is to be sunk to a depth about 200 feet after which the company proposes to put in all kinds of machinery. The Ada Florence mine is said to be on the same vein as the Keystone property adjoining where the operations have been almost continuous, and where work will be resumed Monday after a short delay on account of a broken pump.

The Eclipse Mining Company, of which Wm. Miller, of Louisville, is president, is now working on the McBean farm at a depth of 67 feet where something unusual has developed in the way of an almost solid three foot vein of zinc which is said to be the finest from the point of quality ever found in Kentucky. The company now has a force of men at work putting up buildings and installing machinery. The owners are to be congratulated on the excellent results of their efforts. They are chiefly Louisville capitalists. A sample of the ore here has excited considerable interest.

Judging from the following clipping taken from the Yellowville Arkansas Echo where J. N. Clark, formerly of this city, and who is well known to our readers, resides, Mr. Clark, who did considerable prospecting here several years ago, is meeting with some success in the mineral line in his Arkansas home. Mr. Clark was one of the promoters of the Marion Mineral Company, of this city, which is one of the most substantial companies operating here. Mr. Clark is known to the writer to be a man who can scent an ore vein farther than a bear can a bucket of honey and we just know that is the reason he moved from Roe up to Yellowville. The clipping reads:

"J. O. Pence bringing in a nice specimen of ore from his farm four miles south of town Wednesday. This is the property from which Mr. J. N. Clark brought some fine specimens of Jack, to which the Echo referred last week. Mr. Clark, we understand, has a working option on the land, and with the small amount of work already done, has shown a four foot ore vein near the surface. With further practical development work, we predict for this the making of a very valuable property."

Baptist Meeting.

Elder H. Boyce Taylor, of Murray, will begin a series of meetings at the Baptist church next Sunday, January 14. Elder Taylor is a good man and a good preacher and it is said of him that he does a wonderful work.

Celebrates Eighty-First Birthday.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Jan. 10. Mayor John W. Breathitt, the present postmaster and the oldest living citizen who was born within the limits of Hopkinsville, celebrated his eighty-first birthday yesterday.

Mayor Breathitt was born in what is known as the Hopson place, one of the landmarks of this city, on January 9, 1825. His father was James Breathitt, for many years Commonwealth's Attorney of this judicial district, and who was a brother of former Governor of Kentucky John Breathitt, who died while still in office.

Henry-Phillips.

Married on the evening of the 10th inst. at the residence of the grandparents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Russell, Mr. Thomas Henry of Blackford to Miss Elizabeth Phillips of Blackford. The bride is the oldest daughter of Rev. L. H. Phillips of Bell Mines. She is pretty, amiable, modest kind hearted and a first class prize to the matrimonial lottery. The groom is a trusted employee of the L. C. railroad, is well fixed financially, and is a moral and pleasant young gentleman. They will reside in Blackford. The Press extends congratulations and kindest wishes.

MAY THEY BE HAPPY EVER AFTERWARD

Romantic Courtship Followed by a Lover's Meeting Which Culminated in Pretty Wedding.

At St. Paul, Minn., at 1:30 o'clock last Thursday evening, Dec. 28, Dr. D. M. Daniel, of Western, this county, was united in marriage to Mrs. Adella Taylor, of the former city, the ceremony taking place at the German M. E. church, the pastor, Rev. Jacob Berger officiating. After the ceremony and the receiving of numerous congratulations, the happy couple left for a wedding tour to Lake City on the beautiful Lake Pippin in that state where the bride has friends and relatives. They also visited other places, then started for Kentucky, spending a short time in Chicago and arrived in this city on the morning of January 4, where they have since been guests at Hotel Crittenden.

The bride is a lovely and refined lady, and the groom who is well known to most of our readers, is a retired physician and a prosperous farmer, is to be congratulated on his success in winning so amiable a bride.

The wedding was the happy culmination of a romantic courtship. More than a year ago the two, though unknown to each other, became correspondents through a Chicago matrimonial agency. Many letters were exchanged between them during which time the recent holidays were nearing, the little imp had his nets so tightly drawn that the doctor, unable to withstand the pressure, boarded a train for St. Paul, where, in due time, he arrived. He was met at the station by the pretty widow, saw each other for the first time. Cupid drew his net an inch or two tighter, and the two were driven to the home of Mrs. Taylor at 325 Van Dyke Court, closely followed, of course, by the aforesaid little imp.

From a near-by hotel the doctor paid frequent visits to the home on Van Dyke Court with the culmination as above narrated.

There is no human being so despicable as the one who tells miserable little lies about his fellows.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS IN MASONIC TEMPLE HALL.

To Be Guests of Honor at Banquet Taken in Appreciation For Use of Pythias Hall.

Thursday evening, January 18, in their new temple hall the members of Higham Lodge F. & A. M., No. 250, will give an elaborate banquet to the officers and members of Blackwell Lodge No. 57, Knights of Pythias.

After the fire of last March when, with the rest of the unfortunates, the local Masonic lodge was rendered homeless for the time being, the local Pythian lodge with that brotherly feeling and spirit of friendship for which is the basis of the institution, tendered its castle hall to the Masons who accepted it and used it as a place of meeting while their new temple was undergoing the process of construction. In return for the favor the Masonic order offered to pay rent, furnish fuel and lights, but the Knights of Pythias of old Blackwell No. 57 would not have it so, and as an acknowledgment of the kindness shown, and as a token of deep appreciation, the banquet will be given.

Rosewood Camp, No. 22.

The installation of officers of Rosewood Camp No. 22, Woodmen of the World, took place Monday evening in their new quarters.

The following officers were installed: John Sutherland, council commander, R. I. Nunn, adj't. lieu't., Jack Butler, banker, S. H. Ramage, clerk.

Steel, watchman, Hodge Fritts, sentry, Rev. J. R. McAfee, chaplain, W. H. White, Jno. Nunn and W. H. Clark, trustees.

After the installation of the officers, the members of the lodge repaired to Copher's restaurant where they partook of their annual banquet.

MAYOR SHIVELY CALLED TO OWENSBORO

Father's Health and Business Affairs Demand the Attention of His Son.

Mayor G. E. Shively left Wednesday afternoon for his former home at Owensboro where he was called to look after the affairs of his father's estate on account of the incessant illness of the latter and where his family had already preceded him. Dr. Shively's stay in Owensboro will therefore be somewhat indefinite, but his request is that his friends here be notified that he hopes to be able to return to Marion soon. Dr. Shively has only resided in Marion a comparatively short time, but during that time he has risen rapidly in the practice of his profession and for a young man has won for himself signal honors, one of which was his recent election to the Mayorship of this city on the Independent Citizens ticket.

Wednesday morning before his departure, Attorneys, Thos. W. and J. R. Champion and Dentist F. W. Nunn, who have their office on the same floor with Dr. Shively, presented him with a nice family Testament, which was delivered with an appropriate speech by Thos. W. Champion, and inscribed over their signatures on the fly leaf was the following:

"Accept this small gift from three friends, with every expression of kind regard."

It is hoped that his father's health and business affairs will shape themselves promptly so that Mayor Shively will be permitted to return.

MAJ. JOSEPH C. BRECKINRIDGE DEAD.

Served in Staff of His Father During Civil War—Died in Yonkers, New York.

The death of Maj. Joseph C. Breckinridge last Monday in Yonkers N. Y. Death was the result of pernicious pneumonia.

Maj. Breckinridge was sixty-one years of age and the oldest son of Gen. John C. Breckinridge, the noted Confederate commander, and served on his father's staff during the greater part of the war.

After his return from Kentucky Maj. Breckinridge married Miss Sallie Johnston, daughter of United States Senator Johnston, of Arkansas, who survives with three children, a married daughter, Laura, and two sons, John C. Breckinridge, assistant counsel to Mayor McClellan, of New York, and J. Breckinridge, connected with a New York street rail road company.

He also leaves a mother, two sisters and a brother, Clifton R. Breckinridge, former member of Congress from Arkansas and Minister to Russia in President Cleveland's administration.

Notice to Teachers.

Will the school teachers of the county do us a favor by calling on Mrs. W. F. Mott the first time you come to town, at Morris & Yates' grocery store, and get a package of cards and some instructions. We want to visit every home in the county the third week in January. Will you please help us do this work?

Your Friend, Mrs. W. F. MOTT, Chairman of H. H. Visitation.

Don't Try It.

As a general thing, those who refresh their souls every morning by memorizing a bit of poetry are late to work and lose their jobs, and afterward take a whole-day to it.

GOV. BECKHAM SAYS DO MANY THINGS "IF"...

Not a People's Governor as in His Message He Wants to Centralize Things.

The hat makers at Frankfort have been asked to consider many things by the Governor in his message. Chief of which is the following:

Favors some plan for raising additional revenue and for reduction of unnecessary expenses.

Recommends abolition of local boards of asylums for the insane and feeble-minded institutes.

Recommends improvements in the laws regarding the assessment of property.

Recommends that either the law giving $75 for each pauper idiot be amended so that counties must share the expense with the state, or that addition to the feeble-minded institute be built and the idiots be sent there.

Recommends that the asylum for the insane and feeble-minded institute be placed in the hands of a state board of control, to be appointed by the governor and confirmed by the senate.

Recommends that the number of cases which may be appealed to the court of appeals be restricted.

Recommends that the penalty for carrying concealed weapons be increased beyond the reach even of executive clemency.

Recommends that all executions of the death penalty be done in the Frankfort penitentiary.

Recommends that abuse upon the commonwealth and its treasury in the cost of criminal prosecutions be corrected.

Recommends a law inflicting effective penalties upon any express Co. or common carrier for seeking to collect freight charges at both ends of the same package.

Recommends that a law be passed permitting a circuit judge to call a special term of court at any time and have a special judge appointed so that congestions may be relieved.

Recommends that prison commissaries be appointed instead of elected by the general assembly.

Recommends the establishment of normal schools if it can be done without seriously trespassing upon the school fund.

Recommends a general improvement of the school system.

Recommends that provisions be made for additional help in the geological survey and inspection of mines.

Recommends encouragement and development of agriculture.

Recommends conservative treatment of railroads, but holds that the power of a railroad company to levy an extortionate rate should be restrained.

Recommends that if the condition of the treasury will permit, that money be appropriated for a home for tuberculosis victims.

Recommends that more money be appropriated for the capitol building, if the condition of the treasury will permit.

Recommends changes in the laws of public printing.

Says the state guard shows great improvement.

Recommends that $5000 per annum be placed at the disposal of the state historical society.

Recommends better system of examination of state banks.

Recommends careful examination of insurance stations with a view of better protection to policy holders.

Recommends a law of establishing a fire marshal.

Recommends that the court and not the jury fix penalties in cases where persons are found guilty of crime by jury.

A Card of Thanks.

We desire to thank with all our hearts our many kind and urbane friends of Marion, for the urbane shown us during the illness of our daughter.

And most especially would we remember our kind and faithful physician, Dr. T. Atchison Frazier.

MR. AND MRS. J. R. MOORE.

J. C. Rudd Dead.

Owensboro, Ky., Jan. 10.—James C. Rudd, one of Owensboro's most prominent citizens, died suddenly at his home here to-day. He was born in Louisville, but he lived here fifty years.

He was the original promoter of the Owensboro and Nashville railroad and was interested in many other local enterprises during his life. He was seventy-two years old.

W. W. MARSH THE WINTON PLACE PROPHET

Predicts The Weather For 1906—Rarely Ever Misses in His Prognostications.

W. W. Marsh, the Winton Place prophet, who rarely ever misses in his prognostications, has this to say concerning the coming year:

"The year 1906 will be a very prosperous year in the commercial line; great prosperity prevailing over the entire country—the year will be free from wars; peace over the entire world."

"The storms during the year will be disastrous, both on land and water, causing much destruction on the great bodies of water, Atlantic Ocean, Great Lakes and Gulf of Mexico and adjoining states. Great storms over Southern and Gulf states and the Eastern and New England states, the West and Northwest. Cyclones and heavy rains will do much damage, with floods over the states west of the Mississippi river especially over Kansas, Nebraska and along the western streams in the month of June."

"There will be a shortage in the corn and wheat crops on account of the early killing frosts during the fall months, and droughts during summer months. The spring will be late and fall an early one, with killing frosts. The summer hot, with intense heat. The winter will not be a severe winter, but an open one. The winter storms will be severe, and occasional coal waves will prevail in all sections of the country, but of short duration. During the month of January, 1906, severe winter storms will prevail in all sections of the country, the snowfall being quite heavy over the states west of the Mississippi, the Eastern and New England states and the North Atlantic coast, lake regions and the Northern States, Northern Ohio, Pennsylvania, Virginia."

"Tariff will suffer over the East, West and Southwest and Northwest on account of snow blockades. February, 1906, will be an open month. The weather during this month will be mild with an occasional cold wave and snow, but the precipitation will consist of heavy rains. Floods will occur during February and March, and very high water in June. The month of March

Educational Column

W. HUGH WATSON, Editor.

Real things made practical are the first of the school.

-0-

There are many ways to kill time in the school. Tear off the pieces of paper and a moment will pass.

-1-

That the school is nearly out is a time for retrospection. What have I done? What have I learned? What have I forgotten?

-2-

An unsuspecting patron is easily deceived, but it is a very difficult thing to play a deception upon oneself. I wish it were so, but down, down in the heart we know it is so.

-3-

Really, truly by the straight edges and figures, have you really learned your pupils in things that will benefit them in the after years? You can't be with them in the heat of their battles to suggest, to help, what can? Your work will tell them, either in success or failure.

-4-

Some practical things worth the teachers while worth the pupils' while.

How to write a promissory note.
How to write a receipt.
How to write a business letter.
How to spell simple, everyday words correctly.

How to write plainly enough to be read after twenty-four hours cooling.

These are some of the things we, as teachers, should know, and be able to teach it to the boys and girls under our charge.

-5-

Some think that penmanship, that call it plain writing, is a sure avenue to greatness, for no other reason, perhaps, than because they have read somewhere of the great deeds and some other notable words of famous men. Ah! Reading Shakespeare does not ensure Shakespeare, neither does bad writing produce greatness. Whatever the precedent, break it and learn to write legibly. Besides, the world is tired of the fellow who tries to ape the other because he is, or is supposed to be, great.

WORK AND SUCCESS.

Success casts over one a charmed spell. The successful man has numberless imitators, the paltry imitation being the barrier to success. The successful, the man of determined initiative is the one who will succeed. Work, work hard, work constantly and then only will success come. There is truth still in the old adage, "There is no excellence without great labor." The genius-dependent stops not far beyond mediocrity. Not so much dash and a little more constancy will solve success problems. James Whitecomb Riley's advice to literary aspirants is, "Dig, dig, dig." Fear of selling his white hands or spoiling laundry will be the bug bear to success. "I would have done so and so, if" there was the secret hinges on the fatal "if." In this discussion I will let you have a half way peek into my library. Let you see four treasures in my store house of mind here.

Samuel Smiles has helped more men and women who really are striving to attain, than any other one man, perhaps. His set, consisting of four well-sized volumes occupies a prominent place in many libraries. I have the set and they are a ready help and inspiration. The volumes bear the titles "Thrift," "Self-help," "Duty," and "Character." The titles are not misleading with regard to their contents. In the bookness of those who long to do and to be that don't stop at the mere blingling those books are invaluable aids. They are messages burning intensely with action. The trend of their thought is, you can best help others by making of yourself the best possible man or woman.

Work is absolutely necessary to success. Books are the tools of work. They don't in themselves bring success, but they aid in bringing it. They broaden thought and acquaintance, and, to know, to be and to do that is success.

The Grip.

"Before we can sympathize with others, we must have suffered ourselves." No one can realize the suffering attendant upon an attack of the grip, unless he has had the actual experience. There is probably no disease that causes so much physical and mental agony, or which so successfully defies medical aid. All danger from the grip, however, may be avoided by the prompt use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy, not one case has ever been reported that has resulted in pneumonia or that has not recovered. VOTE FOR PEGGY AND THE CHILDREN

Contributed by J. N. TOWERY

The people must rule or our republic perish. Initiative and referendum is the only salvation for the nation. Initiative and referendum being non-partisan, all can partake in it. The people's veto is the only safe guide to maintain a republic.

The people's sovereignty is safer than delegated power. It is not my intention to advance the interest of any political party by writing this article. Primary initiative and referendum belong to the people. There is nothing to hinder them from obtaining it if they will only set and then secure secondary initiative and referendum.

I think I will be able to show before I get through this article the power of the government and that our law-maker should heed to the will of the people. The people possess all power and they should use their sovereign rights. Those of us who live in America are inclined to be careless of the right to self government. We possess the ballot and can therefore defeat the candidate who is against us, but it was not always thus. It took seven long years of war to establish American Independence. That war was for the preservation of self government.

To all Englishmen the rights of taxation without representation was established way back in 1262 as the result of the Barons' war which lasted four years and was, says John Fiske, in the beginning of New England, an event of the same order of importance as the great rebellion of the seventeenth century and the American revolution, and among the founders of that political freedom which is enjoyed today by all English speaking people, the name of Simon de Montfort, Earl of Leicester, deserves a place in our grateful remembrance, besides the names of Cromwell, Napoleon and Washington.

Simon's great victory at Lewes in 1264 must rank with Nashy and Yorktown. The work begun by the House of Commons was the same work that has continued to go on without essential interruption down to the present day. The fundamental principle of political freedom is no taxation without representation. You must not take a farthing of my money without consulting my wishes as to the use that shall be made of it. Only when the principle of justice was first practically recognized, did government begin to divorce itself from the primitive bestial barbarian system of tyranny and plunder and to ally itself with the forces that in the fulness of time are being placed on earth and good will to mankind. If all dates in history, there is none more fit to be commemorated than 1264, for in that year there was first asserted and applied at Westminster on a national scale, that fundamental principle of "no taxation without representation." That paramount kernel of the English idea still lives and will as long as the English language is spoken.

When we ponder over these dates, we can see the advantage to monopolies and trust, in crushing all good principles of self government, and realizing the import of the saying that with the Lord a thousand years are but as one day, and we feel that the work of the Lord cannot be done by the flesh or the cloth. So much time and strife by sea and land has it taken to establish and secure our liberties, it will be when the yeomanry of this country come of age. All will be lost after thousands of true, patriotic men have given up their noble lives to establish our republic. Not without unrelenting watchfulness can we be sure that the day of peril is yet passed. From kings, indeed, we have no more to fear they have come to be as specks and beggars of the nursery. But the greatest dangers are those which present themselves in new forms against which people's minds have not yet been fortified with traditional sentiment and phrases.

The inherited predatory tendency of men to prey upon the fruits of other people's labor is still very strong and while we have nothing more to fear from kings, we may yet have trouble enough for commercial monopolies and favored industries, marching to the path of other barons of bribed retainers. Well, indeed, has it been said that eternal vigilance is the price of liberty. God never meant that in this far too treacherous world in which he has placed us, we earn our salvation without steadfast labor. I will admonish all voters to be placed now on their guard, and they will now be in favor of enlarging the power of the people-power of giving the optional initiative and referendum the power to veto any mean and foul legislation that would endanger the liberties of this country.

The new form in which the power of the few exist, is known to all its machinery rule, which frequently is centralized in a single head or boss. The strength of the machine or boss is, power to enact legislation, therefore, he is able to and does sell legislation as merchandise. This is the only question: How can this new form of injustice be terminated? God who has brought the human family to its present stage of happiness, has not deserted or changed his mind.

Gradually a system has been developed in which the party machine can be transferred from the party to the people to take to themselves a veto power through what is known as the referendum, and they take to themselves a direct initiative in addition to the indirect form. These two developments, the referendum and the initiative, better described as the people's veto and direct initiative, terminate most of the evil features of party politics.

For a century the system has been developing and everywhere with excellent results, but party government has developed more rapidly until a few years ago in 1863 in South Dakota the referendum and initiative were extended to all legislation except agency measures and the same is true in Utah and Arizona. Constitutional amendments have been submitted in Massachusetts, Missouri and Nevada while in all the other states a hot contest is on. Likewise in the nation the people have found they can take to themselves the final power, thereby improving legislatures and congress and benefiting every honest legislator. It removes the possibility of corruption so that honest men can afford to serve the public.

Reviewing what has been said, it appears that the way to restore our liberties is to transfer to the political parties to ourselves, the final power as to laws. The easiest way to secure this in state affairs is to lodge all candidates for the legislature that it elected they will vote to, the people of the state an opportunity for a constitutional amendment for final power in the people, the details of the amendment to conform to certain specific requirements. This places the issue where it is the strongest. The mere rights of the people to veto or propose changes in the system of government, rightly expressed and recognized in the bill of rights and believed in by the people.

In other words, the line of least resistance has been found. No earthly power can defeat this progress. All the people believe in it, therefore, candidates dare not oppose it. I know of no better method of closing this than to show you the workings of monopolies in California in 1898. It will suffice to show how they can bribe legislature and overthrow the will of the people a thing they don't dare to undertake in republic Switzerland, the original birthplace of majority rule.

Some of the countries of Switzerland are so democratic, initiative of a law comes from the people. The law making power does not listen to the people. The laws when discussed by the people, are in accordance to what the people want. They are as perfect as human wisdom can invent, made for all the people.

I will now give you an effort of the people in California in 1898 to secure initiative and referendum and how they were thwarted by monopolies and sell-outs. It is as follows:

Monopolies defeat majority rule. The strength of monopolies and other determined efforts to prevent majority rule is most clearly shown in California in 1898. The people of San Francisco adopted a new charter. It was prepared by a committee of one hundred business men who placed in it provision for a compulsory referendum as to franchise for city monopolies and direct initiative as to all questions upon the petition of fifteen per cent of the voters. The legislature ratified the charter. Later, the cities of Sacramento to Pasadena and Alameda adopted a people's veto and direct initiative. The referendum by counties was provided for a few years ago by the legislature, but two years ago the supreme court of the state decided the law unconstitutional. Organized labor aided in securing the majority rule provision. For years the Californians have been demanding a reform in the legislative system by placing in the people's hands the veto power and direct initiative. At the annual convention in January, 1901, a resolution was adopted directing the executive committee to prepare a constitutional amendment and secure its submission by the legislature during the summer. Work along this line was begun in the southern part of the state without knowing what organized labor had done. The California Direct Legislation League was organized and Dr. John Haynes was elected president and George H. Dunlap, secretary, both of Los Angeles. Dr. Haynes is a wealthy, popular and busy man, who was the soul of the struggle in securing

A Jamaican Lady Speaks Highly of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

Mrs. Michael Hart, wife of the superintendent of Port Service at Kingston, Jamaica, West India Island, says that she has for some years used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for coughs, croup and whooping cough and has found it very beneficial. She has implicit confidence in it and would not be without a bottle of it in her home. Sold by HAYNES & TAYLOR, the enterprising druggists, of Marion.

DRAGGING

down pains are a symptom of the most serious trouble which can attack a woman, viz: failing of the womb. With this, generally, come irregular, painful, scanty or profuse periods, wasteful, weakening drains, dreadful backache, headache, nervousness, dizziness, irritability, tired feeling, inability to walk, loss of appetite, color and beauty. The cure is that marvelous, curative extract, or natural essence, of herbs, which exerts such a wonderful strengthening influence on all female organs. Cardui relieves pain, regulates the menses, stops drains and stimulates the muscles to pull the womb up into place.

It is a safe and permanent cure for all female complaints.

WRITE US A LETTER

In strictest confidence, telling us all your troubles. We will send free advice (in plain sealed envelope). Address: Ladies' Advisory Dept., The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

"I SUFFERED AWFUL PAIN

In my womb and ovaries," writes Mrs. Naomi Blake, of Webster Groves, Mo., "and my menses were very painful and irregular. Since taking Cardui I feel like a new woman, and do not suffer as I did."

THE NEW FIRM

The Hina Hardware Co.

FOR several years I have studied the question of how supplies could be furnished the Farmer, Gardener, Builder and other classes of people at the least cost and lowest possible expense. I have figured it out that debarring the cost and worry of keeping books, and debarring accounts that are never paid by some unfortunate individuals, but which profit on goods sold you help make up, cutting these items out I found that goods could be sold at 10 per cent. less, at least, on the cash basis, and that is what we have adopted.

ARE YOU WILLING TO BE IN BUSINESS WITH US?

And have one-half the regular profit usually made on Hardware? Then buy your goods at our store, the ONLY CASH Hardware Store in Crittenden County, and you will be convinced the profit has been divided with you, because you do not have to help pay the other fellow's account, nor the cost of keeping books. The prices will verify our statements. Come in and get our prices.

ISSUED WEEKLY.

JAS. E. CHITTENDEN,
Editor and Publisher.

SUBSCRIPTION ONE DOLLAR PER YEAR.

Entered as second-class matter July 15, 1904, at the postoffice at Marion, Ky., under Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

FRIDAY, JAN. 12, 1906.

Only one side of a proposition will not permit a just conclusion. If you are an honest man, get the other side.

Have the Home Merchants broken their new year's resolution to advertise a little more this year and try to make it a better year than last?

The sneaking, sniping type of humanity is an abomination among decent people anywhere. If you mean to do the best for your constituency, weigh well the propositions that are made to you.

The Democratic office holders in Caldwell have agreed to pay all costs including lawyer's fees and the Republican contestants have dismissed their contest suits without prejudice.

Representative Ollie James has introduced in congress the bill he offered last session to provide for the extradition of refugees upon requisition from the governor of the state from which the refugee has fled. It covers of course, such cases as that of W. S. Taylor, in Indiana.

The north pole has seemed to be so much nearer us this week that we thought it a good time for Walter Wellman, of the Chicago Record Herald, to begin his proposed search for it in the airship. It is said that Major Jersey, formerly in charge of the Louisville weather bureau, will accompany him.

It is reported that Henry Youtsey is making in his boots in the Frankfort penitentiary over the prospect of Jim Howard's arrival. It may not be exactly pleasant for Youtsey to think of having to spend the remainder of his life shut up with a man who has been deprived of liberty largely through his injury, but it is not likely that Jim Howard would attempt to harm a creature like Youtsey. —Paducah Sun.

The merchant who takes the pains to get printers' ink and tell you what he is to sell, deserves your patronage. Such a man is an enterprising adjunct to any community. If he solicits your trade he will try to furnish you precisely what you want. The inducements that he offers you will bring you, possibly those from afar. Such a campaign for trade is founded on the belief that all are bound to recognize his efforts help his town because he invites people from abroad. He helps his town and therefore his county. Support such a merchant and keep him in your midst. Of course, while he uses printers' ink the newspaper man may reap a benefit, but had you thought of the fact that the newspaper man deserves all he can reap. He says and scatters abroad those things from time to time, that are calculated to bring capital into your midst. Isn't that what we need, capital? Just think of the thousands of things said, gratis, by the newspaper editor in behalf of your town and county and let the general verdict be. The newspaper man deserves all he can reap, and let us not forget the editor of our county paper.

Speaker of the State Senate Lieutenant Governor W. P. Thorne was almost profuse in the honors showered upon our fellow townsman, Senator J. S. Maxwell. Besides making him chairman of the senate committee on "Hanks and Hanking," he was also appointed as a member of the following senate committees: "Ways and Means," "Geological Survey," "Religion and Morals," "Printing," "Mines and Mining," "Trust and Investment Companies," "Immigration and Labor," "Corporations," "Appropriations" and "Agriculture and Manufacture."

Speaker Lawrence, of the house of representatives at Frankfort appointed the representative from Crittenden and Livingston counties, M. B. Clark, on the following three committees: "Public Warehouses and Granaries," "Mines and Mining" and "Ways and Means," but without a single chairmanship. While it may be politic for speakers to recognize members of opposing parties, it is not considered subservient to give them places for which members of the party in power may hunger.

The Governor and the machine seem still to be holding the whiphand at Frankfort, which confirms the tenuous truth of Judge Mulligan's immortal verse:

"Politics is the damndest
In Kentucky."

—Sturgis Democrat.

The following dispatch from Frankfort appeared Saturday in the Louisville Herald: "State Senator Henry George is slated to succeed Lillard as warden of the Frankfort penitentiary. George was the chairman of the joint Democratic caucus, which nominated Judge Paynter for the United States Senate, and Eli Brown and Harvey McCutcheon for prison commissioner. Henry Hagerman is slated to succeed himself as warden of the branch penitentiary at Edleyville, but Jesse Olive, the deputy warden, will be dropped. Olive is a kinsman of Ollie James, and was defeated in the Democratic caucus with Ed Fennell as a nominee for prison commissioner."

The Young Man's Opportunity.

By E. F. B.

Twenty years ago it would have been difficult to have made the young man of those days believe that agriculture was coming to the forefront of the world's attention. Even the farmer boy imagined if he was set free from the pitiful drudgery of farm work he would stand a better chance to make his fortune in the city, as there seemingly were two classes in the city to go to the country.

But now invention has robbed the farm of the "drudgery" and made it possible to do farm work with dispatch, economy and pleasure. The city has no use for the man who cannot supply the wants to the letter. Unless he has been educated for some special purpose he is not likely to be successful, but is turned away for some one else who has been educated for that branch of business. Everywhere he goes it is the same way, not wanted unless qualified to hold the position.

It would have been better for him to have attended an agricultural school and learned the composition of feed for growing stock, than to know how to keep by single entry is done.

Throughout the country agriculture is now experiencing a wonderful uplift, being such a forward movement as no other calling ever received, and no other age has ever witnessed.

But the time will be, and at no great age, when only the educated farmer will have a chance in the sharp competition of the future. And he will live so much better and make so much more than the farmer of today that it will make most of the farming of the present time pale into insignificance.

What then of the man who leaves the country to find work in the city? Can he promise himself anything there if he has not chosen his profession? No, and you will not find a man going there unless he has a calling. If he does, mark you, he will not succeed anywhere. It is best to learn all you can, but learn to do something, or all your learning will be useless to you or anybody else.

Of what use is there in paying attention to the "get rich quick" schemes which are cunningly devised for alluring the country boy away from the farm and getting his labor for comparatively nothing because he is not acquainted with city ways? And why are the country people looked upon as an inferior class of people by some folks who live in the city, who, if they had as much brain as they have hair, would see things in an entirely different light?

The farmer is as good as anyone, he may not sport a Prince Albert and wear a pair of five dollar patent leather shoes but he dresses neatly and is not owing his labor. Are not the people of the city entirely dependent upon the country people for their daily bread? Sure, but you hear them say, "Oh, I could never, never live in the country for the people are so common." That is the class which needs to see things in a different light, and the same who love to visit the country "in the good old summer time."

Drugging to Death.

A miserable invalid suffering from disordered female functions, monthly pains, nervousness, falling feeling, dizziness, indigestion, biliousness, constipation, etc., will find relief in Wine of Cardui and Theodor's Black-Draught, two of the most valuable, reliable, scientific, curative medicines known for the treatment of sick women. They are sold by all drug stores, and should be in every home. Try them.

WASHINGTON LETTER

From Our Regular Correspondent

In the same connection it may be mentioned that a bill has been introduced in the House reducing the mileage of members from twenty to six cents. The former figure, twenty cents, is a relic of the old stage-coach days when a man was a long time making the journey to Washington from anywhere and when he had to stop over night at taverns and the like. The mileage has remained at that ever since, and few congressmen ever spend their mileage at all but take on a pass and pocket the difference.

The advocates of single statehood for Oklahoma and Indian Territory are coming to fore and their promises to be quite as hard to fight over this question as over the question of separate statehood for Arizona and New Mexico. There is a strong delegation from I. T. here now. They say that statehood and separate statehood was promised them in the Curtis Act, passed by Congress eight years ago and they are averse from being tied up with Oklahoma on the statehood issue. A hearing will soon be given the delegation to the committee of Mr. Hamilton is the chairman and the joint pressure from Indian Territory and from Arizona may result in holding up the two statehood measures for another session of Congress.

Official orders do not stick unless they are intended to, and they are not intended to in the case of certain privileged persons. For instance the anti-pass order issued with a flourish of trumpets by the railroad some weeks ago will not apply to any congressman who wants to save his mileage. The day after the order was issued one of the correspondents in Washington declared that he did not believe the order genuine. He telegraphed in the strength of his suspicions to a high official in the Pennsylvania for transportation for himself and wife to St. Louis and return. The pass came back by return mail, and he displayed it to a number of his friends as an evidence that his suspicions were correct. As a matter of fact he had no earthly use for it and returned it a little later with a polite note saying he had found it impossible to make the trip.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6, 1906.—The Philippine tariff bill fathered by Chairman Payne, has been introduced in the House and bids fair to cause a couple of weeks of debate at least. The main opposition to the bill comes from the cane and beet sugar interests and from the tobacco trust which says it is afraid the American market may be flooded by cheap tobacco as the sugar men are afraid it will be flooded with cheap sugar. Chairman Payne, and he has the backing of Governor Luke Wright and other expert testimony, asserts that there is no danger of sugar and tobacco flooding the American market. In the first place there is not enough land available for either crop to make their great increase a matter of concern to this country, and there is not labor enough available to raise either in great quantities. On the other hand it is claimed that the opening of the Philippines will make a fresh market for American leaf tobacco for cigar wrappers and will enlarge the Philippine market in China and Japan. Of course the tobacco trusts do not want to enlarge the American raw leaf market. It would mean that the American grower would have just that much wider territory in which to dispose of their crop. The American Tobacco Company, of America, and the Imperial Company, of England have pooled the Oriental market to suit themselves, and naturally they do not want it interfered with. But it is very likely that the Philippine tariff bill will pass even if in somewhat amended form, and there will be a letting down of the tariff bars which form one of the chief obstacles in the material development of the island.

Congress can be very funny when it gets dignified, and one of the latest instances in this line was this week when Representative Sims, of Tenn., became excited over an editorial in a local paper and demanded an investigation by the committee on Postoffice and Post-roads into the alleged abuse of the franking privilege in Congress. The investigation was ordered and the committee will probably return a report that the specific charges were unfounded. At the same time every one knows that the franking privileges is abused enormously. Plenty of private and semi-private circulars requiring a reply have been sent out under a frank with a frank envelope enclosed for an answer. Members also do frank a number of things through the post-office that have no business in a mail car. Whether it is true, as alleged, that cows and horses and household goods and kitchen utensils are also franked may be open to question. But it would not be surprising if they were. The little government pasteurizer gives free of the mails to departmental matter has covered a multitude of sins in its time. It may be news to some Representatives, but it was not many years ago that a distinguished member of the Geological Survey, caught in the field at the end of a session when his appropriation had run low, simply pasted government envelopes on his tents, poles, instrument cases and mess chests and sent them all back to Washington by mail. That was perhaps an isolated and exceptionally aggravated case, but there is a lot of cheap grafting under cover of the Congressional frank that the committee could uncover if it wanted to.

Jim Howard's appeal has been denied by the Supreme Court, and his last resort is an appeal to the President.

We are not doing our full duty to ourselves unless we are lifting the shadows of sorrow from hearts stretched to breaking.

Obituary.
James B. Bradley, a ruling elder in Piney Fork church, passed to his reward December 18, 1905, aged 39 years, 10 months and 18 days. He professed faith in Christ at twenty-six years of age and joined the Cumberland Presbyterian church in August, 1900; was elected deacon March 1902; was elected and ordained ruling elder in Oct. 1904.
He was a devoted christian. He will be missed in the home, in his community as a citizen and in the church. While he was a great sufferer he never murmured, but assured his family that he was ready to go at any time. His hope grew brighter during his long severe illness, a visit with him was benediction and an inspiration of his faith in God.

Danger of a Cold and How to Avoid Them.
More fatalities have their origin in or result from a cold than from any other cause. This fact alone should make people more careful as there is no danger whatever from a cold when it is properly treated in the beginning. For many years Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been recognized as the most prompt and effectual medicine in use for this disease. It acts on nature's plan, loosens the cough, relieves the lungs, opens the secretions and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. Sold by HAYNES & TAYLOR, the enterprising druggists, of Marion.
For Sale.

Your Life Current.

The power that gives you life and motion is the nerve force, or nerve fluid, located in the nerve cells of the brain, and sent out through the nerves to the various organs.

If you are tired, nervous, irritable, cannot sleep, have headache, feel stuffy, dull and melancholy, or have neuralgia, rheumatism, backache, periodical pains, indigestion, dyspepsia, stomach trouble, or the kidneys and liver are inactive, your life-current is weak.

Power-producing fuel is needed; something to increase nerve energy—strengthen the nerves.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is the fuel you need. It feeds the nerves, produces nerve force, and restores vitality.

What I began taking Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and after a few days I was free of my troubles. I had severe nervous prostration, the result of two years' illness with malaria. I gradually grew so weak that I was unable to get up. The shells would commence with cold chills, and I would become weak and almost helpless. My circulation was poor. I had doctored badly, but grew weaker and weaker. The Nervine acted to strengthen me right away and my disposition was better. I have taken in all seven bottles of the Nervine and I am perfectly well.

ROSA E. WEAVER, Sharps, Ia.
Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails, he will refund your money.

Dead Cock and Bad Walker.

If the votes of Geo. W. Stone, of Webster county and Munnell Wilson, of Hopkins county in the senatorial race is a sample of the representation those counties will get in the legislature it is little they may expect. "The voice of the people is the voice of God," yet by their actions they have said "the people be damned." An idea could not have gone through Webster and Hopkins counties without gaining the knowledge that the people were overwhelmingly for Blackburn and strong petitions were forwarded to them to so cast their votes. These were contemptuously ignored. What a contrast between these two would be statesmen and Senator Maxwell. It is a pretty well known fact that Senator Blackburn was not Mr. Maxwell's personal choice but he saw that his constituents wanted Blackburn and he waived his own private feelings in the matter to gratify the wishes of the people he represented. "Walking Man" might as well suppress those congressional aspirations of his now, for he will never walk over the necks of the people again. As to Mr. Stone he is a dead cock in the pit. —Providence Enterprise.

LESSON II, FIRST QUARTER, INTERNATIONAL SERIES, JAN. 14.

Text of the Lesson, Matt. 10, 6-12. Memory Verse, 11—Hidden Treasures, 20—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

He that is of the world, and of the flesh, and of the devil, cannot see the kingdom of God which is within you. (John 3:3). We must seek in all our studies to keep before us as far as possible the whole connected story of His sojourn in a mortal body, remembering always that His life of humiliation on earth was but a little part of the life of Him whose honors forth have been from the days of eternity (John 1:2, 9). In Matthew He is the King, Israel's Messiah, in Mark He is the servant, in Luke the man, and in John the Son of God, and in all He is the Branch depending for all His words and works upon His Father, who is God. (John 5:19, 26, 27; John 8:16, 17; John 14:10, 11; John 15:1, 2; John 16:28, 29, 30; John 17:1, 2; John 18:11; John 19:11; John 20:17; John 21:22, 23; John 22:27; John 23:6, 7; John 24:17, 18; John 25:18, 19; John 26:63, 64; John 27:40; John 28:9, 10; John 29:35; John 30:9; John 31:13; John 32:42, 43; John 33:29; John 34:29; John 35:36; John 36:26; John 37:36; John 38:36; John 39:36; John 40:36; John 41:36; John 42:36; John 43:36; John 44:36; John 45:36; John 46:36; John 47:36; John 48:36; John 49:36; John 50:36; John 51:36; John 52:36; John 53:36; John 54:36; John 55:36; John 56:36; John 57:36; John 58:36; John 59:36; John 60:36; John 61:36; John 62:36; John 63:36; John 64:36; John 65:36; John 66:36; John 67:36; John 68:36; John 69:36; John 70:36; John 71:36; John 72:36; John 73:36; John 74:36; John 75:36; John 76:36; John 77:36; John 78:36; John 79:36; John 80:36; John 81:36; John 82:36; John 83:36; John 84:36; John 85:36; John 86:36; John 87:36; John 88:36; John 89:36; John 90:36; John 91:36; John 92:36; John 93:36; John 94:36; John 95:36; John 96:36; John 97:36; John 98:36; John 99:36; John 100:36).

We must seek in all our studies to keep before us as far as possible the whole connected story of His sojourn in a mortal body, remembering always that His life of humiliation on earth was but a little part of the life of Him whose honors forth have been from the days of eternity (John 1:2, 9). In Matthew He is the King, Israel's Messiah, in Mark He is the servant, in Luke the man, and in John the Son of God, and in all He is the Branch depending for all His words and works upon His Father, who is God. He that is of the world, and of the flesh, and of the devil, cannot see the kingdom of God which is within you. (John 3:3). THE CLODHOOPER AND THE BALD-HEADED MAN.

[A story of love and business told in verse, and written expressly for THE RECORD by Robert C. Haynes, author of "Dark Days and Bright."]

VII.

Joe at last reach'd the house—he had been there before,
So pass'd on thro' the gate and walk'd up to the door;
It was open'd, of course, by his dear Imogene,
And a vision more lovely Turk never had seen.

"How are you this evening, my fair Imogene?
You look well, dear, apart from that writing machine."
Joe observ'd, with a smile, and a satisfied air,
As he sat with legs cross'd, in a big parlor chair.

"Oh, I feel just delightful," replied Imogene,
"Due in part, there's no doubt, to the writing machine;
And you, Joe, look well, too—and yet it seems odd
To see you away from your partner, the hod."

VIII.

"Oh! that suits me just splendidly—I scarce like to step!
For to carry up brick to the man at the top
Is really pleasant—much more so, I ween,
Than to be always punching that writing machine."

"Ah, there's no nicer music," replied Imogene,
Than the click-a-ty-click of the writing machine;
And besides, my dear Joseph, just find, if you can,
A 'dictator' more 'cute' than the bald-headed man!"

"So you see, therefore, Joe," still went on Imogene,
"Just betwixt you and me—and the writing machine
I have found my life-work—when my hair has grown gray
I'll just still be a-punching and pounding away!"

IX.

"Say not so," answered Turk, "Say not so, Imogene!
Lay aside that abominable writing machine,
Just put it aside, dear, and after your plan
Turn your back on that rascally bald-headed man!"

"Now, deny, won't you heed my advice?" went on Turk,
"Just give up the machine—let the men do the work!
Let that bald-headed man get that key-puncher, Green,
Or else let him punch his own writing machine!"

"Well, to tell you the truth, Joe," returned Imogene,
"I am not much in love with the writing machine
Or the bald-headed man—and yet, Joseph Turk,
I'm not wealthy, you know, and therefore, I must work."

X.

"Oh, you don't have to punch that old writing machine,
At least," answered Joe, "Be my wife, Imogene,
Then we both can be happy always—sure we can
And 'make mouths' at that scoundrelly bald-headed man!"

"Oh, you wish me to wed you? I never tho't so!"
Imogene made reply, "But of course I will, Joe,
Oh, 'twill be just delightful—just think! Powder Green,
The bald-headed man and the writing machine!"

"It will suit a blank, block-headed fellow like Green
To punch day after day a blank'd writing machine.
He may do," Joe went on, "the best work that he can—
That's just betwix

Sickening Shivering Fits

(Of Ague and Malaria, can be relieved and cured with Electric Bitters. This is a pure, tonic medicine; of especial benefit in malaria, for it exerts a true curative influence on the disease, driving it entirely out of the system. It is much to be preferred to quinine, having none of this drug's bad after-effects. E. S. Munday, of Henrietta, Tex., writes: "My brother was very low with malarial fever and jaundice, till he took Electric Bitters, which saved his life." AT HAYNES & TAYLOR's drug store; price 50c, guaranteed.
